

Safeguarding adults

This information sheet is for all voluntary organisations that have contact with adults who might be at risk of abuse and neglect.

Safeguarding adults means protecting an adult's right to live in safety, free from abuse and neglect. Safeguarding adults is about trying to make sure that adults with care and support needs do not get harmed, and knowing what to do if anyone in your organisation suspects that an adult is at risk of abuse and neglect. Stopping abuse is everyone's responsibility and anyone can raise a concern.

If you suspect that an adult is at risk of abuse or neglect, report it

Safeguarding adults: the Care Act 2014

The Care Act 2014 Part 1 in force from April 2015 includes safeguarding:

- It replaced the No Secrets guidance
- 'Adult at risk' (Newcastle) or 'adult with needs for care and support' (Gateshead) replace the term 'vulnerable adult'
- Safeguarding Adults Boards and safeguarding adult enquiries became a statutory duty
- The Care Act applies to adults aged 18 and over, including those who have children's services until they are 19 or 25 years old
- The definition of adult abuse and neglect was expanded.

What is adult abuse and neglect?

The Care Act defines the abuse and neglect of adults to be:

- Physical
- Financial
- Sexual
- Neglect
- Emotional
- Self-neglect
- Modern Slavery
- Domestic Abuse

- Exploitation
- Discrimination
- Organisational (Institutional)

Adults with care and support needs at risk of abuse and neglect

Under the Care Act, local authorities' safeguarding duties apply to an adult, aged 18 and over, who:

- Has needs for care and support even if they do not have care services
- And is experiencing or is at risk of abuse and neglect
- And as a result of their care and support needs, is unable to protect themselves from the risk or experience of the abuse or neglect

The duty to make safeguarding enquiries exists even if there is no known 'alleged perpetrator' and there is no 'significant harm' threshold.

What is a "care and support need"?

"The adult's needs for care and support are due to a physical or mental impairment or illness...Local authorities must consider... if the adult has a condition as a result of either physical, mental, sensory, learning or cognitive disabilities or illnesses, substance misuse or brain injury...a formal diagnosis of the condition should not be required." (Care Act statutory guidance).

Young people aged 18 to 25

The Care Act widened the concept of abuse and neglect from the previous definition of vulnerable adult, and the adult at risk does not need to actually have care services. As a result more young people aged 18 and over will be defined as at risk of abuse and neglect under the Care Act especially if they have a care and support need due to misusing substances. Safeguarding adult enquiries could help.

Trustees' safeguarding responsibilities

Safeguarding is one of three key strategic risks identified by the Charity Commission in its report 'Tackling abuse and mismanagement 2015-16'.

Charity Commission guidance states that Trustees have primary responsibility for safeguarding in their charity. The report says trustees should fulfil their responsibilities to 'proactively safeguard and promote the wellbeing and welfare of their charity's beneficiaries'. Trustees can do this by making sure there are good policies, procedures and practice in place, and that training is taken up. Safeguarding policy procedures and practice

All organisations in contact with or visited by adults with care and support needs or who are at risk should agree how the organisation intends to respond to adults at risk of abuse and neglect. This is a safeguarding policy statement, usually written on one side of paper.

Written procedures should explain how the policy is put into practice. Good practice will protect the people you have contact with, protect your staff, volunteers and management committee, and protect the good reputation of your organisation.

Newcastle Safeguarding Adults Board has a policy and procedure template for voluntary organisations. Under 'p' on: www.newcastle.gov.uk/social-care-and-health/safeguarding-and-abuse/safeguarding-information-professionals/safeguarding-adults-practice-

Newcastle Sexual Exploitation training

There is joint NSCB and NSAB work to tackle the sexual exploitation of children and adults, missing children, and trafficking in Newcastle. Sexual exploitation (SE) training is mandatory for NSAB partners. To find out what training and resources are available to your organisation and what is appropriate for which role, there is a SE capability framework. Visit www.nscb.org.uk/sites/default/files/NSAB%20and%20NSCB%20Sexual%20Exploitation%20Training%20Plan.pdf

Non-recent (historical) abuse

Non-recent (historical) abuse has had a high profile in recent months as more adults have spoken out. Whilst most non-recent abuse concerns people abused in childhood, sometimes abuse continues after the person turns 18.

If someone has made an allegation of non-recent abuse and the alleged offender is still alive, children, young adults and adults with care and support needs may still be at risk, remembering that some sexual abusers actively abuse for decades. You should ask for the name of the alleged offender and report it, following your safeguarding procedures. Call Northumbria Police Safeguarding Department on 101.

For more information about non-recent abuse, the impact on adults abused as children that puts them at risk now, and to support someone who has made an allegation of non-recent abuse visit: www.nspcc.org.uk/preventing-abuse/signs-symptoms-effects/non-recent-abuse/

Action for your group

1. Write or update your Safeguarding Adults Policy and Procedures, assess the risks and review it every year
2. Agree a Designated Adult Safeguarding Manager Someone senior in your organisation must act as the Designated Adult Safeguarding Manager
3. Know the Care Act definitions of 'risk of abuse and neglect' and 'need for care and support' and consider how they apply to your organisation
4. Write or update your safe recruitment and supervision procedures Ongoing supervision and asking for appropriate criminal record checks are part of safeguarding. Your procedures should include pre-recruitment and ongoing DBS checks of trustees, staff and volunteers who are in relevant roles
5. Consider your staff, volunteer, and management committee training needs Keep a record of who has done which training, and when it is next due. Know how to raise a safeguarding adult concern
6. Keep yourself up to date Newcastle CVS newsletter e-inform includes safeguarding resources. Sign up for free on www.cvsnewcastle.org.uk/ or www.cvsnewcastle.org.uk/gateshead
